“Eyes are not only the window to your soul, but to your entire health,” says award-winning board certified eye surgeon Dr. Nancy Chen, who takes a holistic approach to predict and prevent vision loss and other adverse health outcomes.

Named a 2023 and 2025 Castle Connolly Top Doctor and a 2023 Top Doctors in Hawaii by Modern Luxury Hawaii, Dr. Chen pursued a research fellowship at the Doheny Eye Institute/University of Southern California after medical school, followed by a one-year internal medicine internship at Mount Sinai School of Medicine in New York, NY, with additional research and residency training at the Center for Sight at Georgetown School of Medicine in Washington, DC and the University of Texas Health Science Center at San Antonio, Texas.

“Ophthalmology is an innovative and a constantly changing field,” Dr. Chen says. “I learn new techniques every year.” Among the vision correction services Dr. Chen provides at Kapolei Eye Care is a special implant that gives patients their “20-year-old” eyes back. At Pua Manu Medspa, she not only uses advanced techniques to treat your skin but also incorporates them to improve or heal eye conditions from severe dry eyes and macular degeneration to strokes and more. “The eye and skin can tell a lot about your overall health,” she explains.

“I feel blessed that I came to Kapolei,” says Dr. Chen, who as a member of EyeCare America, also provides seniors with premium eye care at no cost. “The people of the west helped me succeed with open arms and bright smiles.”
